The path to school.

Early in the morning, the sun is like a huge orange, peeking out from the side of the mountain. The sunshine paints the path to school gold.

With the blessing of our parents, we are on our way to school.

On the path to school, there are birds singing sweetly, vibrant flowers, and a green field.

The road to school is also full of footprints, big and small, silhouette tall and short. On the path to school, you and I keep each other companied, and we walk happily to our school.

In school, teachers teach with all their heart, and we devote ourselves to learning joyfully. Here, we find the key to open the window of the world, to solve each query, and overcome each difficult question.

This path binds us to the school and leads us to a bright future.
